WASHINGTON, May [illegible]

Johnson introduced a bill to levy by the Moffatt bell punch a tax on liquors in all places in the district where intoxicants are sold by the drink. Referred

Mr Morrill presented the petition of half a dozen mechanics of Boston favoring the repeal of the eight hour law. They declared it unjust to pay workmen employed by the government as much for eight hours work as other workmen receive for ten hours

Conover reported an amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill authorizing the postmaster general to advertise for carrying mails between San Francisco and Hongkong, touching at Yokohama [illegible] therefor not exceeding $[illegible] per mile. The amendment is similar to that recently reported by the committee for a mail steamship service between New York, New Orleans and Brazil, referred. An amendment also provides for mail steamship service between San Francisco and Sydney, touching at the Sandwich Islands and New Zealand at a cost not exceeding $40 per mile.

Mitchell introduced a bill appropriating $[illegible] for the erection of a lighthouse at the head of Port Orford in Oregon

He also called up the bill extending the time for the completion of the Oregon Central railroad three years, whereupon certain senators expressed a desire to examine the bill, and it was laid over till to-morrow

Sargent called up the bill for the relief of certain settlers on public lands, and to provide for the repayment of certain fees and commissions paid on void entries of public lands. All amendments of committees were agreed to and the bill was passed without discussion. It provides that in cases where proof shall be made that innocent parties have paid the fees and commissions and excess of payments required upon location of claims under the act of March 3 1873 to enable honorably discharged soldiers and sailors, their widows and orphan children to obtain homesteads on public lands which said claims were after such location found to be fraudulent and void, the secretary of the interior shall repay the money to such innocent parties. The second section of the bill provides that in all cases where homestead or timber culture entries or other entries on public lands have heretofore or shall hereafter be cancelled for conflict, or where the entry has been erroneously allowed and cannot be confirmed, the fees and commissions and excesses paid shall be returned upon the surrender of the duplicate receipt

House.

Potter, as a question of privilege, presented the following preamble and resolution

WHEREAS The state of Maryland has by its legislature formally declared that due effect was not given to the electoral vote cast by the state on the 6th day of December 1876, by reason of fraudulent returns of the electoral votes from the states of Florida and Louisiana, and

WHEREAS In an affidavit by Samuel B McLin, chairman of the board of state canvassers of the state of Florida for the election held in that state in November, 1876, for electors for president and vice president, has been made public alleging false and fraudulent returns for the votes for such election in that state, whereby the choice of the people of that state was annulled and reversed, and that the action of the board of state canvassers making such returns was influenced by the conduct and promise of Hon W F Noyes, now minister to the government of France, and

WHEREAS It is alleged that a conspiracy existed in the state of Louisiana whereby the Republican vote in all of the precincts of the parish of East Feliciana and in some precincts of West Feliciana at the general election in November 1876 was purposely withheld from the polls to afford a pretext for exclusion by the board of that state of the vote cast in those precincts for electors of president and vice president, and that Jos F Anderson, supervisor of registration of East Feliciana, and D A Webber, supervisor of registration in the parish of West Feliciana in that state, in furtherance of that conspiracy falsely protested that the election in such precincts had not been fair and free and that the returning board thereupon falsely and fraudulently excluded the votes of said precincts and by means thereof and of other false and fraudulent action by said returning board the choice of the people of that state was annulled and reversed, and that such action of said Webber and Anderson was induced or encouraged by assurances of Hon John Sherman, secretary of the treasury of the United States, and

WHEREAS The gravity of these charges, the nature of the evidence upon which they are reported to be based and the official dignity and position of the persons named in connection with said funds made it proper that the same should be inquired into to the end that the honor of the nation may be vindicated and the truth as to such elections made known. Therefore be it

Resolved That a select committee consisting of 11 members of this house be appointed to inquire into the aforesaid allegation as to the conduct of persons in office aforesaid. In respect of said election and into the alleged false and fraudulent canvass and return of votes by state, county, parish and precinct officers in said states of Louisiana and Florida and into all facts which in the judgment of said committee are connected with or pertinent thereto, and said committee for the purpose of executing this resolution shall have power to send for persons and papers, to administer oaths, to take testimony, and in their discretion to detail sub committees and with like full authority of said committee in every particular and with power to sit in Florida and Louisiana, which sub committees shall be committees of this house and the chairman thereof shall be authorized to administer an oath, that said committee and sub committees may employ stenographers and be attended each by a deputy sergeant at arms, and may sit during the sessions of this house and during vacation, and that said committee proceed in this inquiry and have leave to report at any time

The vote by which the main question was ordered on the bill to regulate inter state commerce was reconsidered and the bill went over till to morrow

The preamble and resolution having been read, Conger said they did not present a question of privilege and that the powers proposed in the resolution could not be given by a mere majority vote, but would require a suspension of the rules.

Potter said one would suppose that if there was any subject which should be entitled to preference in this house in respect of the order of business it was the subject brought to its notice by the memorial of a sovereign state touching the official conduct of high officers of the government and relating to a fraud alleged to have occurred changing the result of an election of the highest officers of this government. Potter said I am speaking only to a question of order. Later on if I have opportunity to say anything I shall be able to answer the inquiry as to a question of order. It seems to me that to state this case is to argue it. If for reasons that appear on the face of this resolution this inquiry is not privileged then nothing can by its nature be privileged. If the house ought to give preference to the consideration of any subject a subject of the magnitude of this one to which the resolution relates ought certainly to have such preference

Hale argued from the rules and manual that the resolution did not present a question of privilege. If the resolution proposed or was intended to subvert an accepted result in the presidential election then there might be some claim that it did present a question of privilege, but as a mere expression of opinion it did not present any such question

Garfield also argued against the resolution being a privileged one. He said the gentleman from New York bases his claim that it is a privileged question on the fact that the memorial which it recites was a memorial from a sovereign state and therefore entitled to a very high place in the consideration of this house. I think the gentleman from New York was unfortunate in placing his case on that idea. The states of this Union are represented by individual members who are sent here to speak and vote for their states and in no other way whatever can a state of this Union be heard on this floor except under the rule which is a recent modification that on the Monday mornings call joint resolutions of state and territorial legislatures may be introduced for printing and reference

Speaker—Would the gentleman from Ohio deny to a state the right of petition as given in the constitution?

Garfield—Oh a state has of course the right of petition

Speaker—A memorial is a petition and is provided for in the constitution wherein it is stated that congress shall make no law abridging the right of the people to petition the government for redress of grievances.

Garfield—The speaker's reference to the right of petition is entirely unnecessary. That question was discussed on this very Maryland resolution and everybody here granted the perfect and unquestioned right of petition, but the right of action here on this floor is quite a different thing and the question of whether it rises to the dignity of a privileged question depends on the right of action which somebody can demand of the house. This is a question of privilege without doubt provided the mover of it alleges that he purposes to follow it up as a matter of impeachment. If he says that this is a proceeding intended to pave the way to impeachment then doubtless it may be a question of privilege. If he says it is a proposition by the house to determine the question of the title of the president to the office which he holds, then I answer that that question has been determined by the [illegible] of two houses of congress and it is beyond the reach of this house. If again, the object of the resolution is merely to organize a committee [illegible] campaign purposes to make [illegible] for the fall, then the ex[illegible] of a political party have never yet risen to the dignity of question of privilege. Further, [illegible] None of these two propositions [illegible] I am glad that at last [illegible] they have [illegible] the language of Shakespeare have left off their damnable faces and begun, and now for the play. [Applause on the Republican side]

Mills argued that the resolution did not present a question of privilege. He could find no smaller [illegible] in the constitution unless in that power of the constitution which gives the house the right to [illegible] impeachment against the president for high crimes and misdemeanors, but [illegible] it a question of privilege under that constitutional provision the resolution must contain a charge against the president of sufficient gravity to justify the house in putting him on trial [illegible]. All the frauds alleged in the resolution had been once investigated and a commission under the constitution had declared the present incumbent of the presidency to be duly elected under the constitution and law and that was the end of it. The power no longer existed in the 45th congress and any attempt in the part of the 45th congress to exercise such power over the presidential election was a usurpation.

This congress had no power at all over this question. If this house had power to investigate the question as to how Hayes obtained the presidency it also had the right to investigate the means by which James K Polk had obtained the presidency in his time and to bring along back to the days of Washington and bring the facts of his election before the people. Any attempt on the part of this house to investigate and undo what had been done by the 44th congress in declaring who was president was nothing short of usurpation. [Applause on Republican side]

Cox of New York read an extract from the decision of the electoral commission in the Florida case and charged Garfield, one of the commissioners, with having either a convenient conscience or convenient logic

The speaker said this was a new question and proceeded to analyze the situation, reviewing the history of the Maryland resolutions, and said it was the appeal of a state of this union to the federal legislative power for the correction of a high grievance said to have been committed in Florida and Louisiana against the state of Maryland having by fraud a different result in the presidential election from that actually decreed by the people at the polls. The chair need not decide on the truth of the allegations but he knew from a power which within the limits is recognized as sovereign by the constitution and that the welfare of all the states was involved. The chair could not conceive a higher privilege than the one broadly and directly involved here of the rightful occupancy of the executive chair of the government and as to the connection of high government officials with the frauds alleged among the questions of privilege enumerated by the manual is the election of a president. The chair therefore ruled that it was a question of the highest privilege [Applause on the Democratic side]

Conger appealed from the decision

Potter moved to table the appeal. Agreed to—156 to 108, a party vote except that Fort, Mitchell and Butler voted with the Democrats and Buckner and Mills with the Republicans

Reagan explained that he agreed with Mills that the president could not be retired, but thought this a privileged question

Conger raised a point that as the resolution proposed to give the committee unusual powers it could not be adopted by a majority vote and that as it provided for the expenditure of money it must first be considered in committee of the whole

Saylor to refute this instanced the famous Gardner investigation

Garfield said there was no force to this illustration and after further discussion the speaker overruled the point that the committee could not sit during recess without a two thirds vote

Conger then said the law prescribed who shall administer oaths and this house could not change the law

The speaker overruled the point as of no force. He also overruled the point regarding the expenditures of money

Garfield made the point that it required a two thirds vote to empower the committee to report at any time

The speaker sustained the point, and Potter struck out those words.

Hale asked Potter to yield to the amendment

Potter said this was a resolution contemplating an important inquiry and he introduced it at the request of his political associates. He moved the previous question

Hale hoped he would allow the minority to be heard and not prohibit a germain amendment

SIBERIAN MINES

The exiles who live in the mines are convicts of the worst type and political offenders of the best. The murderer for his villainy, the intelligent and honest Polish rebel for his patriotism are deemed equally worthy of the punishment of slow death. They never see the light of day, but work and sleep all the year round in the depths of the earth, extracting silver or quicksilver under the eyes of taskmasters who have orders not to spare them. Iron gates guarded by sentries, close the lodes, or streets, at the bottom of the shafts and the miners are railed off from one another in gangs of twenty. They sleep within recesses hewn out of the rock very kennels into which they must creep on all fours. Prince Joseph Lubomirski, who was authorized to visit one of the mines of the Oural at a time when it was not suspected he would ever publish an account of his exploration in French, has given an appalling account of what he saw. Convicts racked with the joint pains which quicksilver produces, men whose hair and eyebrows had dropped off and who were gaunt as skeletons were kept to hard labor under the lash. They have only two holidays, Christmas and Easter, and all other days, Sundays included, they must toil until exhausted nature robs them of the use of their limbs when they are hauled up to the in the infirmary. Five years in the quicksilver pits are enough to turn a man of 30 into an apparent sexagenarian, but some have been known to struggle on for ten years. No man who has served in the mines is ever allowed to return home; the most he can obtain in the way of grace is leave to come up and work in the road gangs, and it is the promise of this favor as a reward for industry which operates even more than the lash to maintain discipline. Women are employed in the mines as sifters, and get no better treatment than the men. Polish ladies by the dozen have been sent down to rot and die while the St Petersburg journals were declaring that they were living as free colonists, and more recently ladies connected with Nihilist conspiracies have been consigned to the mines in pursuance of a sentence of hard labor. It must always be understood that a sentence of Siberian hard labor means death. The Russian government well knows that to live for years in the atrocious tortures of the mines is humanly impossible and consequently the use of a euphemism to replace the term capital punishment is merely of a piece with the hypocrisy of all official statements in Russia. Once a week a pope, himself an exile, goes down into the mines to bear the consolations of religion under the form of a sermon enjoining patience. By the same occasion he drives a little trade in vodki. The miners who live habitually on tschi and black bread, are allowed a kopeck for a good day's work, and this sum invariably goes in drink. Perhaps the raw, rancid spirit serves to keep up their strength, anyhow the intoxication it brings on affords the unfortunates the only dreg of comfort they can expect on this earth. One shudders to think of the state of the better educated men who refuse the consolation of occasionally drowning their sorrow in liquor

Rationalism in Scotland.

[From the New York Tribune]

The spread of rationalism in Calvinistic Scotland has been illustrated by the votes of the Presbytery of the Free church in the recent heresy case. Prof Robertson Smith of Aberdeen was suspended from his college chair a year ago on account of articles which he had contributed to the new edition of the "Encyclopædia Britannica," conspicuously those of "Angels," "Bible," and "Canticles." The Presbytery arraigned him on three general counts under each of which there were eight specific charges of heresy relating to such points as the historical character of Deuteronomy, the existence of angels and the nature of prophecy. The first general count charged him with contradicting the confession of faith, but when the votes were taken in February on each of the eight specifications he was declared not guilty, the division on the first minor proposition being 18 to 14 and on the 8th 25 to 5. The second general count which embraces the dangerous and unsettling tendency of his writings was subsequently dismissed and on March 14 by a majority of one it was decided to be relevant. The Presbytery by this vote did not convict him of heresy but merely decided that if he should be [illegible] guilty of holding and uttering [illegible] tendencies, then would be ground for libel [illegible]. He has obtained a month's delay in order to prepare answers to the eight specifications. If he be again acquitted he will be arraigned under a third general count which charges him with disparaging the authority of the Scriptures and drawing unwarrantable inferences

THE EASTERN QUESTION.

Doings of the House of Commons

LONDON, May 13 —In the house of commons this afternoon Northcote declined to fix the day for discussion of the resolution of Chamberlain concerning the government's foreign policy. In response to the inquiry whether British troops in Europe do not exceed the number authorized by parliament the chancellor said the Indian forces were never included in the act fixing the number of the British army. Lord Hartington announced that he would shortly offer a resolution that no forces be raised or kept by the crown in time of peace, save within India without the sanction of parliament

Northcote said he hoped to submit a supplementary estimate in a fortnight, when Lord Hartington's resolution might be discussed

Foolhardiness—Drowning.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13 —Yesterday James Bannatyne, cashier with Balfour, Guthrie & Co left Saucelito alone in a small canoe of the Rob Roy pattern with a view of paddling over to Oakland. The wind was high and bay rough. This morning the canoe was discovered in a somewhat damaged condition floating about the bay. Mr Bannatyne's coat and one of his boots, wedged fast under a foot brace of the boat, and some papers, were found on board. Parties are out searching the bay and islands in hopes that he may have survived the evident accident being an excellent swimmer but there is little hope of such a termination of the adventure

Fire.

SAN FRANCISCO May 13 —About 9 30 a fire broke out in the furniture and upholstery establishment of John Hoey on Market street between Third and Fourth. It soon spread to a similar establishment of Wm Koeser adjoining on the west and to the restaurant and bakery of Westfield & Page, and to the Columbia Hotel on the east. The buildings were old frames of three and four stories in height and before the fire was gotten under control the rear portion of all of them were pretty much burned off. The loss in the Columbia Hotel of occupants on furniture, etc, is perhaps $500; loss to Westfield & Page about $2,000, and the lodging house in the upper floors of the building was damaged to the extent of $1 000. Hoey probably loses $12 000 on stock and Koeser about $5 000. Goods in the hardware store of R I Osborne next west of Koeser were damaged by water to the extent of $500. The total on buildings will not probably exceed $2 000 and it is thought all the damage to buildings and stocks is covered by insurance

[From the Denver (Col.) Times]

An old colored gentleman engaged in boot blacking met a competitor for trade at the post office this morning, and bounced him thus: "See hyah! I've been all over America an' Europe an' [illegible] out o' the trade. I'll black boots for 3 cents an give trust, now min' yo'"

THE SENATORIAL ATTACK ON THE ADMINISTRATION

[From the Nation

The disagreeable impression produced by Senator Howe's speech last week has been deepened by the [illegible] since on the Republican side which preceded it. Such attacks on the administration would have or might have a good deal of force, at all events would not seem discreditable, if they came from men whose activity in good works during the party [illegible] conspicuous. But when people [illegible] the first year of the administration and take account of its shortcomings and omissions and see that the [illegible] prominent Republican senators start up to assist them and even deliver bitter commentaries on its faults, they do not listen to the orator very long before [illegible] to run on his own career and before they ask what he himself was doing while the president and his cabinet were engaged in the various crimes and follies he describes. There has been a vigorous effort made during the past winter to spread the notion that this was an impertinent inquiry; that although it was everybody's right to exact of the executive branch of the government a daily account of its manner of discharging its constitutional duties, it was nobody's business how the senators passed their time, in what way they were showing their interest in the public welfare, what steps they had taken to meet the dangers now threatening us—what in short they had done to make up for the president's short comings. This effort, however, has not been successful. The public has not taken the Cincinnati platform as a vain form of words. It has taken it as the pledge of the Republican party to follow out a certain line of policy and it has never forgotten that the support and pursuit of this policy were as much the duty of the senate as of the president, each of course acting in its own sphere. There never has for instance been any general acceptance of the theory that the president alone was to reform the civil service or the currency or defend the public credit or pacify the south. It has all along been held that it was also the duty of the majority in the senate to do whatever the constitution allowed it to do for the same objects—a duty having precisely the same origin and the same sanction. Moreover it has never been admitted that a senator any more than the president could discharge this duty either by sitting still in his official chair and smiling or sneering, or looking dark, or by going to a hotel and swearing. The senate is not a judicial body, except when it is sitting in cases of impeachment. It has not to wait for its opinions and judgments to be evoked by motions from without, except when nominations are submitted to it. It has full legislative powers except as regards the origination of appropriation bills. Its responsibility for the condition and working of the government is in fact in many respects greater than that of the president, and any senator who criticises the president or any of the departments must not come before the public as a mere bystander who has been watching them and does not like their ways; he must come as their colleague, who has been himself trying, and openly and notoriously trying to bring about what they have neglected or refused to assist in.

When therefore any senator says that Mr Hayes' policy at the south has been criminal or mischievous it is perfectly proper to ask him what he himself has done or advised to be done towards pacifying the south, what speeches he has made or votes he has cast towards curing the great contention by which for fifty years the nation has been rent. And when he says the president has not reformed the civil service and has made bad appointments it is every citizen's right and duty to ask what he has himself been doing towards this reform, what speeches he has made or bills he has introduced to promote it, and one must even go so far as to enquire what he has been saying about it in private at his hotel and in his own house and whether in denouncing the president's conduct he was angered by his failure to make a complete change of system or by his having any change at all

It must be confessed that truthful answers to these questions put the Republican senators in a sorry plight. If they have shown any more energy or activity in dealing with the problems of the day, or any greater readiness to use for their solution the weapons put into their hands by the constitution the public has failed to perceive it. No more momentous questions have ever presented themselves for legislative solution than have presented themselves during the past year: the provision of a better mode of electing the president, the reorganization and improvement of the civil service, the reform of the currency, the revision of the existing system of taxation, the defense of the public credit against alarming assaults on it, the settlement of the war torn society of the south in some way which would enable the two races which compose it not to divide offices equally but to live side by side in peace and amity and refrain from cutting each other's throats. What contributions to these great objects have come from the Republican side of the senate? Except two or three speeches from Senator Edmunds we know of nothing. In fact we think we are not wrong in saying that in no winter since the party came into power have the senators of the party been so silent, so inactive and apparently so little interested in the real politics of the country. It is indeed significant and characteristic that when they held a caucus the other day it was, according to the best reports, not to consider what course they had better pursue with regard to the burning questions of the day but what kind of rumpus would be most likely to secure the re-election of the senators whose term expires next March

Senator Howe's speech is now generally acknowledged to have been a trial balloon sent up to see in what quarter the wind lay. The result has proved unsatisfactory but the malcontent Republican senators and especially the illustrious Conkling are reported to have enjoyed it highly. Now such a performance coming from so obscure, silent and dull a politician as Mr Howe is not worth analysis on its own merits but it well repays perusal as an illustration of the attitude toward public business of that section of the senate which is most active in its opposition to the president. It will be observed that it deals almost wholly in so far as it is not mere denunciation with things past and irrevocable—that is with things which are the concern of the historian and the philosopher but not of the politician except in so far as they furnish guidance for the future. His concern is not with what might have been but with what shall be; not with what ought to have been done but with what must now be done. The policy for instance of withdrawing the troops from the south and allowing Hampton and Nicholls to keep possession of their respective state governments is a proper subject of discussion in a legislature only if it is proposed to send down troops and oust Hampton and Nicholls. If this is impossible long speeches about it are only appropriate in a debating society or in a body like the house of commons where the administration can be deposed from office by a vote of want of confidence. Even there however such speeches would only be tolerated from a recognized leader who had given proof of legislative activity and of strong interest in and mastery of the leading questions of the day. From a man like Mr Howe who had sat for seventeen years in dull silence and who had never been known to originate a bill or an idea they would be coughed or laughed down

The attack of this gentleman on Senator Schurz deserves attention for the same reason although it reaches a depth of folly, in the strict sense of the term, with which the rest of the speech is not justly chargeable. For simple fatuity we doubt if many congressional orations have equaled the passage in which he gave a biographical sketch of Mr Schurz by way of discrediting him. The first charge—think of this coming as a reproach from an American senator—was that Mr Schurz began his career by taking arms in his hot youth in the great liberal movement of Germany which began in 1820 and, after many trials and reverses, triumphed at Sedan—that is a movement in pursuit of parliamentary institutions and national unity. The next was that having fled to this country young, unknown, and ignorant of the language he was after a few years sent as minister to Spain, made a major general in the army, elected to the United States senate and finally made a cabinet minister, having been unsuccessful as a lawyer and editor. From the Howe version a stranger might fairly infer that these honors—extraordinary under all these circumstances—were bestowed on Mr Schurz in consequence of a career of great rascality and of successful violence exercised against the American people and their government and that the failure to succeed at the bar, or in journalism was in itself proof of moral obliquity and was rarely heard of among natives of the United States. When one learns or knows, however, that Mr Schurz's reputation and success, his public honors and rewards have been due to his having rapidly become in a foreign language too one of the greatest orators of our time and to his having used his eloquence with wonderful effect in the picturesque and noble agitation in defence of freedom which preceded the civil war; that during his one term in the senate he did more to illustrate that body by his splendid powers of debate than any one who has sat in it during the last thirty years; that the brunt of the battle in defence of the national credit against base and ignorant Republican inflationists was there borne by him and that since he left the senate he has twice saved important elections to the Republicans on this most serious question by the use on the stump of the same unrivaled oratorical skill, one [illegible] not at Howe's folly, for he is not well enough known to excite amazement, but at the folly of the backers and confederates who have [illegible] on. The German voters of this country are apathetic and are hidden a good deal from the view of American politicians by their language but if they have a spark of self respect and political sense they will see that when as in Mr Schurz's case they have given a first rate man to the politics of their adopted country his name and fame are properly protected and that [illegible] shall allow him at least as much deference as they lavish on any sorry [illegible] aggressive [illegible]. To the agencies which men like Mr Howe owe and have to owe their [illegible] and continuance in public life, viz the wire-pulling, pipe laying, log-rolling, [illegible] and intriguing, Mr Schurz [illegible] himself and his children is indebted for nothing. His judgment has undoubtedly proved defective in more than one important crisis in his career but he can nevertheless use with one or two slight changes without conceit or self inflation to Senator Howe and the senatorial crew who hate and envy him the language in which Burke repelled the assaults of other paltry revilers

They cannot readily comprehend the career they condemn. What I have obtained was the fruit of no bargain, the production of no intrigue, the result of no compromise, the effect of no solicitation * * *

They think I have obtained too much. I answer that my exertions, whatever they have been, were such as no hopes of pecuniary reward could possibly excite, and no pecuniary compensation can possibly reward them * * *

Nitor in adversum is the motto for a man like me. I possessed not one of the qualities nor cultivated one of the arts that recommend men to the favor and protection of the great. I was not made for a minion or a tool. As little did I follow the trade of winning the hearts by imposing on the understanding of the people. At every step of my progress in life, for in every step was I traversed and opposed, and at every turnpike I met I was obliged to show my passport and again and again to prove my sole title to the honor of being useful to my country by a proof that I was not wholly unacquainted with its laws and the whole system of its interests both abroad and at home. Otherwise no rank, no toleration even, for me. I had no arts but manly arts. On them I have stood and please God in spite of the Group to the last gasp will I stand

TUESDAY MORNING MAY 14 1878

AN INADEQUATE DEFENCE

Mr Brown state printer in his paper of last week came to the defence of himself and Mr Noltner in regard to the state printing But the main questions were left untouched It is susceptible of demonstration to anybody's satisfaction that four times the amount of paper used was constantly charged against the state In other words that paper which cost less than eight dollars a ream and for which the printer was allowed to receive ten dollars by law was habitually folded so that one ream was counted as four and forty dollars charged and received therefor Also that by a similar method the charge for presswork was doubled These facts are not met at all But as to composition it is argued by the printer that inasmuch as the constitution forbids any reduction of the fees of the office during the term for which the printer shall have been elected it was therefore right to continue the composition in the disgraceful method pursued by some of his predecessors This argument assumes that such method was formerly admissible and was protected by law when in fact such was not the case It never was anything but barefaced fraud No law authorized it and no custom justified it But the printer—we quote from the Albany Democrat—says The work was done well and carefully was performed in all its details with accuracy and dispatch the most competent and expert mechanics were employed the very best of material was used in execution of the work and not one word of fault was found anywhere against Mr Noltner's measurement until his political friends saw fit to present his name for that office. Gratitude for services leads the printer into too warm expressions for his expert As matter of fact which every person who has inspected the printing sees at a glance, the work was not done well Every rule of art and taste was violated to stretch out the various jobs If the work was done carefully the whole care was to make an unconscionable bill against the state Nor is the question as to Mr Noltner's part in it now for the first time raised A full year ago THE OREGONIAN examined this whole subject at length and showed wherein the work had been wrongfully done It is not therefore a mere campaign sensation sprung to defeat Mr Noltner It is a real abuse the responsibility of which must fall on its authors

PICKWICKIAN REFORM

Observant persons must still beg to be excused from going into raptures over Mr Hayes' civil service reform The loud professions in his letter of acceptance, and the louder reiterations in his inaugural have been followed by very little action It is but a poor pennyworth of bread to an intolerable deal of sack Only the other day Mr Hayes very sweetly explained to Mr Campbell of Pennsylvania that he really did not mean to forbid office holders from "helping the party" in conventions or anywhere else only they must be sure they did it out of love for the cause,—which, of course, is the sole motive every time,—and not for the purpose of keeping themselves in office or getting office for their friends. He also smilingly observed that while he forbade political assessments he did not forbid voluntary contributions by officeholders to the cause, and that he himself expected to make "a contribution to the party" Officeholders may be as active as ever in politics, only now it must be understood that they are working the wires for nobody, are setting up tickets solely "for the good of the party," and are animated only by a high and holy love of a noble cause. They will all "pony up their assessments" to run primaries, fix conventions and support slavish and mendicant newspaper organs, only we must be very careful to call these assessments "voluntary contributions" hereafter

President Hayes did forbid assessments for political purposes, and under pain of dismissal he did forbid government officials from taking part in political conventions But he has never ordered the dismissal of even one of the many officials who have openly disregarded the order, yet the order still stands And for a year past officials have been appointed and removed without more reference to their efficiency and with just as manifest a reference to their political "claims" as ever before. In our own state for several months many of the federal officials have been working unceasingly in politics, striving to gain various advantages for themselves through the coming senatorial election President Hayes should follow up his celebrated civil service order with a private circular assuring them that their tenure does not depend on the election of the senator now to be chosen

It is asserted by the Union Sentinel that ex Congressman Slater, who is one of the Democratic aspirants for the United States senate has been remarking lately that in case Mr Hines shall be elected to congress his own prospects for the senate will be ruined, because if Eastern Oregon shall secure the representative the senator will surely fall to the western part of the state And the Sentinel though a faithful Democratic organ, pricks the bubble of Mr Slater's ambition thus

We feel confident that Mr Hines will gain at least two hundred votes if Mr Slater can convince the long suffering people of Eastern Oregon that Mr Hines' election would cook Mr Slater's senatorial goose

Mr Simon Cameron has contributed an article to the North American Review in which he embodies the Cameronian view of "practical politics" He goes very much against them literary fellows "who write of political reforms and bother the party about moral ideas when it should be working up majorities The New York Times says "Careful study of Mr. Cameron's article leads to the conclusion that the policy he would have the Republican party pursue next fall and again in 1880 all comes under two propositions. One is, abuse the south. The other let every debtor be the judge of what he owes and how he will pay

Mr Mitchell is still introducing bills So earnest is he in this labor that he has no time to stop to pass such as he has been introducing during five years past Out of all the innumerable bills which he has introduced during this period we recall not one that has become a law To labor successfully for the interests of the state simply means it would appear, to introduce bills and leave them to their fate It is industry and statesmanship combined One thing is to be said for Mr Grover He is not introducing a flood of buncombe bills

A table recently published showing receipts of live stock at the Chicago stock yards for twelve years ending December 31 1877 exhibits an enormous business During 1877 the receipts of all kinds of live stock were more than three times as large as during 1866 Totals for twelve years are as follows Cattle, 7 866 656 hogs 54 094 948 sheep 3 700 062 valuation of live stock received at Chicago during the last six years reaches the prodigious total of $621 014 004, or more than one hundred million dollars a year

A Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune has discovered a new source of danger to the treasury from southern war claims Under a decision of the supreme court no proof of loyalty on the part of a claimant can be required in any case which may hereafter come before a court the court holding that President Johnson's proclamation of December 25 1868 restoring all rebels to their original rights under the constitution put the disloyal claimant on a level with the loyal before the courts As the matter now stands the courts cannot be opened to the consideration of any class of southern claims without admitting the disloyal claimant to every privilege of recovery given to the loyal claimant

It now seems as if Mr Beecher would succeed in vindicating himself from the stain that rests upon his character and clear himself from the charge of criminality of which many believe him guilty He has been unfortunate in his associations and allowed himself to be used by men and women whose very names are a reproach but many are willing to believe that his offense hath this extent—no more

There is now very general talk of an independent ticket for this county Such ticket if carefully formed so as to give it representative character would probably elect many perhaps most of its candidates

There is a great deal said against the Chinese but nobody ever accused them of writing spring poetry or poor obituary matter for the newspapers

THE MOVEMENT AGAINST HAYES TITLE

In the house of representatives yesterday the long talked of movement to investigate the revelations concerning alleged electoral frauds in Florida and Louisiana culminated in a resolution to appoint a commission for that purpose In the New York Times of May 1st there are presented some observations on this subject which this action by the house will render very pertinent and we therefore reproduce them The Times calls it a barren agitation It considers the revelations overrated by those who sought them We quote several passages at length

The Democrats who from the first insisted that they were cheated find fresh reasons for their faith, and the Republicans who hold that the electoral commission having been created to determine doubtful points of law and to adjust a dispute of whose merits it was made the judge rendered a verdict that should be accepted as decisive see in the stories no new reason for reopening the controversy But the little feeling that exists cannot be measured exactly by party lines And the prime cause of the popular indifference is the aversion to ordinary partisanship of any sort and the unwillingness to countenance aught that may tend to foster political excitement at a time when men's minds are preoccupied with more practical considerations

So far as this indifference concerning the presidential title prevails among the Democracy it seems to be traceable to two or three well defined causes At the south especially it is almost everywhere apparent The journals write of it with moderation and an evident determination not to respond to Mr Tilden's pulling of the wires Some of the reasons assigned are not likely to increase the Republican love of Mr Hayes For instance we read in several Democratic newspapers pious ejaculations indicative of thankfulness, first, for deliverance from the hero of Gramercy Park next for the accession to power of the present occupant of the presidency They declare that they are too well satisfied with Mr Hayes to trouble themselves about any defect in his title

All agree that Mr Hayes has done everything that could have been hoped for from Mr Tilden and in addition some things which that gentleman could not have done The destruction of the southern section of the Republican party is dwelt upon as a gain which only a Republican president could have conferred. Democratic moralists snugly seated in headquarters at New York may deplore the depravity which allows their party in Louisiana and Florida to treat the recent disclosures as of no account, but the circumstance is not unnatural after all The Louisiana Democrats have got all they wanted If the Florida Democrats have got less it is probably because they were more easily satisfied If the Democrats in other southern states cannot be induced to grow angry and threaten revolution it is because they appreciate the advantages they have obtained and realize the value of the aid which Mr Hayes is still willing to render them

A Vicksburg newspaper states this aspect of the case very frankly In a certain sense the south is out of politics Its thoughts are concentrated upon its material interests. Once more absolute master of its own affairs, it no longer fears a Republican supremacy and is willing to make terms with anybody who will comply with its demands in the matter of grants subsidies and expenditures generally Now Mr Hayes happens to be more obliging upon these points than many Democrats. He is known to be in favor of the policy that would stimulate local development at the cost of the nation He is not opposed to subsidies or to the southern ideas respecting internal improvements Therefore the south is opposed to the revival of a controversy intended to shorten his term of office It desires to keep Mr Hayes where he is in order that it may squeeze all it can out of him

Another powerful reason for the flatness with which the revelations have fallen upon the Democratic ear is the unconquerable aversion to Mr Tilden and the determination not to do anything that can invest him with an authority that would be used to secure his renomination in 1880 The argument is something like this If by any means Mr Hayes were removed and Mr Tilden installed the latter would so employ the means at his disposal as to render his renomination inevitable. That would be a greater calamity to the Democratic party than the continuance of Mr Hayes in office We intend to prevent its occurrence We can get all the capital we want out of the question as it stands for use this fall and we shall be rid of Mr Tilden in 1880 All the more sagacious of the party's leaders appear to entertain this view

Points for Investigation

[From the Chicago Times]

The following are a few of the principal subject matters that would naturally come within the field of investigation

The Louisiana returning board job

The Florida returning board job

The baneful influence of Stoughton Noyes and other visiting statesmen upon the morals of the virtuous McLin Dennis Wells Anderson et al

Tilden's Oregon job

The negotiation of Tilden's agents for the purchase of the elector Brewster in Louisiana and why $50 000 was deemed too great a price

The Foster Matthews intrigue

The confederate brigadiers sell out

The midnight conspiracy at Wormley's and the mysterious protocol in the custody of Maj Burke

Hayes missionaries to Louisiana—McVeagh Lawrence et al [Ben Butler would volunteer to conduct this part of the investigation

Tilden's cabinet and why members abdicated their functions

Heavy Purchases of Cattle.

[From the Walla Walla Statesman]

During the present season the following named parties have purchased in this immediate vicinity the number of cattle set opposite their respective names Ryan & Lang 12 000 Spratley & Everhardy, 1 500 Haley & Co 1 500 Rand & Co 2 000 Insley & Co 1 500 In addition, Messrs Ryan & Lang have purchased about 300 head of horses These purchases, in the aggregate represent about $200 000 It is estimated that fully 30 000 head will be driven out of this country this season most of them going to Leavenworth from which place they will be shipped by rail to the large cities of the eastern states

A Credit Mark for Tilden.

[From the Milwaukee Sentinel]

The American people have reason to be thankful that Mr Tilden is a peaceable man otherwise blood would have flowed in rivers on the 4th of March 1877, and Mr Tilden would have waded through it to the presidential chair Senator Conkling's brother says I saw Mr Tilden and told him I was for one in favor of inaugurating him at all hazards Mr Tilden replied he was not willing to take the office at the price of blood and so remained passive as he has ever since Let us be grateful to Mr Tilden for saving us from the hands of this man

Indian Citizens

From the Walla Walla Union

Some four Indians appeared at the land office this week and notified on their land claims They had previously taken out their citizen papers and are now qualified to hold lands One unfortunate has had his claim filed on by a white man and a contest we suppose will be the result This we think is a great misfortune as those applicants for land have always been on friendly terms with the whites, and during the Indian war of 1855 and 1856 rendered valuable services to the volunteers

We propose to burst the ring that has ruled Baker and Grant counties so long and call on all good citizens of both political parties to stand by us All we ask is reasonable support we will do the work Never put off until to morrow what should be done to day This disagreeable task should have been done years ago but it is better late than never When a half dozen ringsters combine to load our state ticket with [illegible] A H Brown and our county ticket with men who have never [illegible] except when working to defeat the party we think it full time that [illegible] the first day of June [illegible]

AN INADEQUATE DEFENCE

Mr Brown state printer in his paper of last week came to the defence of himself and Mr Noltner in regard to the state printing But the main questions were left untouched It is susceptible of demonstration to anybody s satisfaction that four times the amount of paper used was constantly charged against the state. In other words that paper which cost less than eight dollars a ream, and for which the printer was allowed to receive ten dollars by law was habitually folded so that one ream was counted as four and forty dollars charged and received therefor Also that by a similar method the charge for presswork was doubled These facts are not met at all But as to composition it is argued by the printer that inasmuch as the constitution forbids any reduction of the fees of the office during the term for which the printer shall have been elected it was therefore right to continue the composition in the disgraceful method pursued by some of his predecessors This argument assumes that such method was formerly admissible and was protected by law, when in fact such was not the case It never was anything but barefaced fraud No law authorized it, and no custom justified it But the printer—we quote from the Albany Democrat—says The work was done well and carefully, was performed in all its details with accuracy and dispatch, the most competent and expert mechanics were employed, the very best of material was used in execution of the work, and not one word of fault was found anywhere against Mr Noltner's measurement until his political friends saw fit to present his name for that office.' Gratitude for services leads the printer into too warm expressions for his expert As matter of fact which every person who has inspected the printing sees at a glance, the work was not done well Every rule of art and taste was violated to stretch out the various jobs If the work was done carefully the whole care was to make an unconscionable bill against the state Nor is the question as to Mr Noltner's part in it now for the first time raised A full year ago THE OREGONIAN examined this whole subject at length, and showed wherein the work had been wrongfully done It is not therefore a mere campaign sensation sprung to defeat Mr Noltner. It is a real abuse, the responsibility of which must fall on its authors

PICKWICKIAN REFORM

Observant persons must still beg to be excused from going into raptures over Mr. Hayes' civil service reform The loud professions in his letter of acceptance, and the louder reiterations in his inaugural have been followed by very little action. It is but a poor pennyworth of bread to an intolerable deal of sack Only the other day Mr Hayes very sweetly explained to Mr Campbell of Pennsylvania that he really did not mean to forbid office holders from "helping the party" in conventions or anywhere else, only they must be sure they did it out of love for the cause,—which, of course, is the sole motive every time,—and not for the purpose of keeping themselves in office or getting office for their friends. He also smilingly observed that while he forbade political assessments he did not forbid voluntary contributions by officeholders to the cause, and that he himself expected to make "a contribution to the party" Officeholders may be as active as ever in politics, only now it must be understood that they are working the wires for nobody, are setting up tickets solely "for the good of the party," and are animated only by a high and holy love of a noble cause. They will all "pony up their assessments" to run primaries, fix 'conventions and support slavish and mendicant newspaper organs, only we must be very careful to call these assessments "voluntary contributions" hereafter

President Hayes did forbid assessments for political purposes, and under pain of dismissal he did forbid government officials from taking part in political conventions. But he has never ordered the dismissal of even one of the many officials who have openly disregarded the order yet the order still stands And for a year past officials have been appointed and removed without more reference to their efficiency and with just as manifest a reference to their political "claims" as ever before. In our own state for several months many of the federal officials have been working unceasingly in politics, striving to gain various advantages for themselves through the coming senatorial election President Hayes should follow up his celebrated civil service order with a private circular, assuring them that their tenure does not depend on the election of the senator now to be chosen

It is asserted by the Union Sentinel that ex-Congressman Slater, who is one of the Democratic aspirants for the United States senate has been remarking lately that in case Mr Hines shall be elected to congress his own prospects for the senate will be ruined, because if Eastern Oregon shall secure the representative the senator will surely fall to the western part of the state And the Sentinel, though a faithful Democratic organ, pricks the bubble of Mr Slater's ambition thus "We feel confident that Mr. Hines will gain at least two hundred votes if Mr Slater can convince the long suffering people of Eastern Oregon that Mr. Hines' election would cook Mr. Slater's senatorial goose.'

Mr. Simon Cameron has contributed an article to the North American Review in which he embodies the Cameronian view of "practical politics" He goes very much against 'them literary fellows" who write of political reforms, and bother the party about moral ideas when it should be working up majorities The New York Times says "Careful study of Mr. Cameron s article leads to the conclusion that the policy he would have the Republican party pursue next fall, and again in 1880, all comes under two propositions. One is, abuse the south. The other let every debtor be the judge of what he owes and how he will pay"

Mr Mitchell is still introducing bills So earnest is he in this labor that he has no time to stop to pass such as he has been introducing during five years past. Out of all the innumerable bills which he has introduced during this period we recall not one that has become a law To labor successfully for the interests of the state simply means it would appear, to introduce bills and leave them to their fate It is industry and statesmanship combined One thing is to be said for Mr Grover He is not introducing a flood of buncombe bills

A table recently published showing receipts of live stock at the Chicago stock yards for twelve years ending December 31 1877 exhibits an enormous business During 1877 the receipts of all kinds of live stock were more than three times as large as during 1866 Totals for twelve years are as follows. Cattle, 7 800 656 hogs 4 094 9.8 sheep 3 700,012 valuation of live stock received at Chicago during the last six years reaches the prodigious total of $621 511 004 or more than one hundred million dollars a year

A Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune has discovered a new source of danger to the treasury from southern war claims Under a decision of the supreme court no proof of loyalty on the part of a claimant can be required in any case which may hereafter come before a court the court holding that President Johnson s proclamation of December 25 1868 restoring all rebels to their original rights under the constitution put the disloyal claimant on a level with the loyal before the courts As the matter now stands the courts cannot be opened to the consideration of any class of southern claims without admitting the disloyal claimant to every privilege of recovery given to the loyal claimant

It now seems as if Mr Beecher would succeed in vindicating himself from the stain that rests upon his character and clear himself from the charge of criminality of which many believe him guilty He has been unfortunate in his associations, and allowed himself to be used by men and women whose very names are a reproach but many are willing to believe that his offense hath this extent—no more

There is now very general talk of an independent ticket for this county Such ticket if carefully formed so as to give it representative character would probably elect many perhaps most, of its candidates

There is a great deal said against the Chinese, but nobody ever accused them of writing spring poetry or poor obituary matter for the newspapers

THE MOVEMENT AGAINST HAYES TITLE

In the house of representatives yesterday the long talked of movement to investigate the "revelations concerning alleged electoral frauds in Florida and Louisiana culminated in a resolution to appoint a commission for that purpose In the New York Times of May 1st there are presented some observations on this subject which this action by the house will render very pertinent and we therefore reproduce them The Times calls it a barren agitation It considers the 'revelations overrated by those who sought them We quote several passages at length

The Democrats who from the first insisted that they were cheated find fresh reasons for their faith, and the Republicans who hold that the electoral commission having been created to determine doubtful points of law and to adjust a dispute of whose merits it was made the judge, rendered a verdict that should be accepted as decisive see in the stories no new reason for reopening the controversy But the little feeling that exists cannot be measured exactly by party lines And the prime cause of the popular indifference is the aversion to ordinary partisanship of any sort and the unwillingness to countenance aught that may tend to foster political excitement at a time when men s minds are preoccupied with more practical considerations

So far as this indifference concerning the presidents title prevail among the Democracy it seems to be traceable to two or three well defined causes At the south especially it is almost everywhere apparent The journals write of it with moderation and an evident determination not to respond to Mr Tilden s pulling of the wires Some of the reasons assigned are not likely to increase the Republican love of Mr Hayes For instance, we read in several Democratic newspapers pious ejaculations indicative of thankfulness first, for deliverance from the hero of Gramercy Park, next, for the accession to power of the present occupant of the presidency They declare that they are too well satisfied with Mr Hayes to trouble themselves about any defect in his title

All agree that Mr Hayes has done everything that could have been hoped for from Mr Tilden and in addition some things which that gentleman could not have done The destruction of the southern section of the Republican party is dwelt upon as a gain which only a Republican president could have conferred Democratic moralists snugly seated in headquarters at New York may deplore the depravity which allows their party in Louisiana and Florida to treat the recent disclosures as of no account, but the circumstance is not unnatural, after all The Louisiana Democrats have got all they wanted If the Florida Democrats have got less, it is probably because they were more easily satisfied If the Democrats in other southern states cannot be induced to grow angry and threaten revolution it is because they appreciate the advantages they have obtained and realize the value of the aid which Mr Hayes is still willing to render them

A Vicksburg newspaper states this aspect of the case very frankly In a certain sense the south is out of politics Its thoughts are concentrated upon its material interests, Once more absolute master of its own affairs, it no longer fears a Republican supremacy and is willing to make terms with anybody who will comply with its demands in the matter of grants, subsidies and expenditures generally, Now Mr Hayes happens to be more obliging upon these points than many Democrats He is known to be in favor of the policy that would stimulate local development at the cost of the nation He is not opposed to subsidies or to the southern ideas respecting internal improvements Therefore the south is opposed to the revival of a controversy intended to shorten his term of office It desires to keep Mr Hayes were he is in order that it may squeeze all it can out of him.

Another powerful reason for the flatness with which the "revelations" have fallen upon the Democratic ear is the unconquerable aversion to Mr Tilden and the determination not to do anything that can invest him with an authority that would be used to secure his renomination in 1880 The argument is something like this If by any means Mr Hayes were removed and Mr Tilden installed the latter would so employ the means at his disposal as to render his renomination inevitable. That would be a greater calamity to the Democratic party than the continuance of Mr Hayes in office We intend to prevent its occurrence We can get all the capital we want out of the question as it stands for use this fall and we shall be rid of Mr Tilden in 1880 All the more sagacious of the party's leaders appear to entertain this view

Points for Investigation.

[From the Chicago Times]

The following are a few of the principal subject matters that would naturally come within the field of investigation

The Louisiana returning board job

The Florida returning board job

The baneful influence of Stoughton Noyes and other "visiting statesmen" upon the morals of the virtuous McLin Dennis Wells Anderson et al

Tilden's Oregon job

The negotiation of Tilden s agents for the purchase of the elector Brewster in Louisiana, and why $50 000 was deemed too great a price

The Foster Matthews intrigue

The confederate brigadiers sell out

The midnight conspiracy at Wormley's and the mysterious protocol in the custody of Maj Burke

Hayes' missionaries to Louisiana—McVeagh Lawrence et al. [Ben Butler would volunteer to conduct this part of the investigation]

Tilden s ' cabinet, and why members abdicated their functions

Heavy Purchases of Cattle.

[From the Walla Walla Statesman]

During the present season the following named parties have purchased in this immediate vicinity the number of cattle set opposite their respective names Ryan & Lang 12,000 Spratley & Everhardy, 1,500 Haley & Co 1 500 Rand & Co, 2 000 Insley & Co 1 500 In addition, Messrs Ryan & Lang have purchased about 300 head of horses These purchases, in the aggregate represent about $200 000 It is estimated that fully 30,000 head will be driven out of this country this season most of them going to Leavenworth from which place they will be shipped by rail to the large cities of the eastern states

A Credit Mark for Tilden.

[From the Milwaukee Sentinel]

The American people have reason to be thankful that Mr Tilden is a peaceable man otherwise blood would have flowed in rivers on the 4th of March 1877, and Mr Tilden would have waded through it to the presidential chair Senator Conkling s brother says I saw Mr Tilden and told him I was for one in favor of inaugurating him at all hazards Mr Tilden replied he was not willing to take the office at the price of blood and so remained passive, as he has ever since Let us be grateful to Mr Tilden for saving us from the hands of this man

Indian Citizens.

[From the Walla Walla Union]

Some four Indians appeared at the land office this week and notified on their land claims They had previously taken out their citizen papers and are now qualified to hold lands One unfortunate has had his claim filed on by a white man and a contest we suppose will be the result This, we think is a great misfortune as those applicants for land have always been on friendly terms with the whites, and during the Indian war of 1855 and 1856 rendered valuable services to the volunteers.

A Democratic Editor on the War Path

[From the Union Sentinel]

We propose to burst the ring that has ruled Baker and Union counties so long and call on all good citizens of both political parties to stand by us All we ask is reasonable support we will do the work Never put off until to morrow what should be done to day This disagreeable task should have been done years ago but it is better late than never When a half dozen ringsters combine to load our state ticket with such men as A H Brown and our county ticket with men who have never been active except when working to defeat the party we think it full time that their career should be ended and the people [illegible] the job on the first day of June just as well as not

ARRIVAL OF RECRUITS—A WISE POLICY.

A number of United States troops are to arrive here on the steamer Oregon and will be distributed among the various posts in the military department During the past three or four months there have arrived in the aggregate probably 400 recruits the most of whom have been sent up the Columbia and distributed among the posts

Gen Howard in recommending this action has had two objects in view First to fill the different fragmentary companies up to the regulation maximum and second to be prepared in the event of an emergency The people of this country remember too well the totally inadequate military force in this department at the time of the outbreak by Chief Joseph and White Bird last June. Had there been a force of troops sufficiently strong to have met the Indians at the outset the war might have been throttled in its incipiency the government saved hundreds of thousands of dollars and better than all else many human lives might have been spared All will remember the comparatively helpless condition of Gen Howard the vexations and unavoidable delays in transporting troops to the scene from all portions of the coast, which thus enabled the foe to gather their scattered forces collect supplies and ammunition, and so prolong the war Against a similar emergency Gen Howard is prudently preparing

It is quite probable that Chief Moses will give the government trouble He has been notified that he and his people must go on the reservation set apart for them He has said in substance that he does not propose to comply He has further intimated that the government has troops in that part of the country, and if they want to fight he is prepared to accommodate them Reports which have been received from time to time from Chief Moses indicate that he will not remove to a reservation quietly He seems quite independent—and even insolent—and it is by no means improbable that serious difficulty may result

Capt. Wilkinson is now on his way to Fort Colville for the purpose of holding a pow wow with Chief Moses and of determining what course that sachem proposes to pursue with regard to the wishes of the government It is hoped that the desire of the goverment may be carried out amicably but should peaceable overtures be met with a spirit of opposition and resistance, force will have to be employed Should Moses adhere to his avowed determination not to be forced on a reservation a collision will be unavoidable unless the government relinquishes its purpose and yields

There can be no doubt but that many of the Indians in Eastern Oregon, Washington and Idaho territories are in a restless and feverish state which would indicate that difficulty in the near future may not be deemed an improbable event Acting on the principle of preparing for war in times of peace Gen Howard is causing the companies to fill up their depleted ranks to the number required and the different posts to be repaired enlarged and strengthened The wisdom and prudence of such a course are obvious If there is to be an Indian war the government should have an adequate force to give the red devils a tropical reception

WORKINGMEN'S MEETING.

Quite a large crowd assembled last evening at Oro Fino Hall on the occasion of the Workingmen's meeting held there The meeting was called to assemble at the corner of Morrison and First streets but the weather proving unpropitious it was concluded to hold the meeting in doors A few lively airs discoursed by the Northwest Band on the balcony brought together several hundred persons

At 8 o clock the meeting was called to order by Mr J C Fuller who stated briefly its object

The first speaker introduced was Mr W W Baker who spoke for a short time Mr Baker's remarks were confined principally to the discussion of the rights of the workingman the question of finance the necessity and importance of railroad connection and the injurious effects of Chinese labor Mr Baker's remarks were characterized by moderation and fairness He spoke in a plain practical way and his speech was well received

Prof W H Chaney was the next speaker He spoke principally on the question of finance Some of his remarks did not meet with the approval of a portion of the crowd and loud and prolonged calls were made for George P Riley Notwithstanding these unmistakable indications of disapprobation Chaney stated that he could neither be bulldozed nor intimidated However his remarks provoked so much opposition that he was finally induced to yield the platform

A German named Voigt was next introduced and addressed the meeting, for some time in very bad English His remarks broken and rambling, were confined exclusively to denunciation of Chinese labor and immigration Wearying at length the patience of a portion of the crowd Mr Voigt was induced to vacate the rostrum in obedience to repeated calls for him to sit down

In response to loud and persistent calls Mr Geo P Riley came forward His appearance was the signal for vociferous applause Mr Riley did not detain the crowd but a few minutes He did not attempt to enter into a discussion of the political issues of the day He said he proposed to thoroughly prepare himself and make a canvass of the county before the election His remarks were in style of a facetious character which created much merriment among the audience Some of his sallies of wit and funny anecdotes were greeted with roars of laughter and applause If Mr Riley did not say much (and he declared at the outset that he did not propose to bore the crowd with a long speech) his remarks produced a very pleasant effect and made every person feel in a good humor

Short speeches were also made by Mr Lent and C Beal Workingmen's candidate for county judge when the meeting dispersed

During the evening the Northwestern band was present and enlivened the occasion by playing between the speeches

WHERE IS THE TEN PER CENTUM?

A VIOLATION OF LAW—WILL MR BROWN RISE AND EXPLAIN

DALLAS Polk Co May 10 1878

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

There is a general belief among the people of this county that there has been gross mismanagement of the public funds in the state treasury The loose and I might say criminal manner in which the school fund has been loaned to favorites on insufficient security has been so fully ventilated that I will not devote much time nor occupy your valuable space in dwelling upon it here but there is another matter, much more serious which has not yet to my knowledge been brought to the attention of the general public and which when fully understood will prove to the taxpayers that the charges of improper management of the public funds under the administration of A H Brown present treasurer and now Democratic candidate for re election have not been overstated The legislature of 1870 of which Mr Brown was a member passed the law for the construction of the locks at Oregon City which provided for the issuing of $200 000 bonds to aid in the construction of said locks section [illegible] of said law (see session laws of 1870 page 16) says "And it is further provided that the issuance and payment of said bonds shall be made upon the express condition that the said corporation shall pay to the state of Oregon ten per centum of the net profits arising from the tolls collected which sum of ten per centum of net profits shall be paid into the common school fund

Under the provisions of said sections of the law the then treasurer, Mr L Fleischner collected from the Lock Company on January 1 1874, the sum of $435 gold coin that amount being 10 per cent of $4 350 which the Lock Company reported as their earnings This money was by the treasurer credited to the school fund (See treasurer's report of 1874 page 23)

Before another annual payment was to be made by the Lock Company, Mr Brown had taken possession of the state treasurer's office During that year the Lock Company did a lucrative business and the earnings were quite large Ten per cent of said earnings should have been paid into the state treasury for the benefit of the common school fund but although they had been paid the previous year yet Mr Brown failed to collect it in January 1875 Again did the Lock Company do a lucrative business during the following twelve months, and yet Mr Brown again failed to collect the money which was due to the school fund from the Lock Company on January 1 1876

The Lock Co, by its failure to pay to the state treasurer the 10 per cent which it owed the state under the above quoted section of the law, forfeited its right to claim payment of the bonds from the state The law as above quoted says that the payment of said bonds shall be made upon the express condition that the Lock Company shall pay 10 per cent etc, to the state of Oregon etc

Mr Brown knew what the law was for he was senator when the law was passed and yet notwithstanding the plain provisions of the law and notwithstanding his oath to administer the law faithfully he paid to the Lock Company during the first two years of his administration the enormous sum of $69 575 gold coin in the following payments as taken from his own report to the legislature of 1876 (pages 101 and 102)

Nov 6 1874 L Goldsmith 50 lock bond coupons at $17 50	$1 750 00
Jan 5 1875 L Goldsmith 400 lock bond coupons at $17 50	7 000 00
Aug 24 1875 L Goldsmith 400 lock bond coupons at $17 50	7 000 00
March 11 1876 B Goldsmith 343 lock bond coupons at $17 50	6 002 50
July 8 1876 B Goldsmith 4[illegible]7 lock bond coupons at $ 7 50	[illegible] 50
Sept 9 1876 Bank British Columbia 80 lock bonds $500 each No 1 to 80 inclusive,	40 000 00
Grand total of	$69 575 00

This was paid out of the treasury by Mr Brown right in the face of plain law Mr Brown's bondsmen can and will be held responsible for this money and it will be the duty of the next legislature to institute the requisite proceedings to recover back to the state the money thus illegally disbursed to partisan friends

This will explain why certain parties from Portland are up this way ostensibly looking after mercantile interests but really working solely for the re election of Treasurer Brown I predict that Mr Brown will be beaten by Ed Hirsch in this county fully 200 votes The funds of the state will be in better hands for the coming four years

Why Senator Patterson did not Visit Don Cameron.

[Washington Letter to Philadelphia Times]

Speaking of Cameron reminds me of Senator John Patterson of South Carolina I have just heard the reason of Patterson's failure to accept ex Senator Simon Cameron's invitation to visit him for a few weeks at Lochiel, the ex senator's beautiful country seat near Harrisburg It should be remembered that there are still eight indictments pending against Senator Patterson in South Carolina, while in Washington no requisition will lie against him, the courts having so decided His friends are afraid however to have him leave the District of Columbia lest he be taken back to South Carolina Governor Hartranft was appealed to in the most earnest manner by the old ex senator and others who begged that he would not obey a requisition from South Carolina for Senator Patterson, but would on the contrary, refuse to surrender him while in Pennsylvania The governor refused to agree to any such arrangement, and said he would make no promises in such a case And this is why Senator Patterson is still in Washington instead of eating strawberries and cream at Lochiel Patterson is really in a sad condition He is very thin and emaciated and great wrinkles seam his face His eye has lost its lustre and his gait and manner are those of a broken man

A large proportion of the American people are to day dying from the effects of Dyspepsia or disordered liver The result of these diseases upon the masses of intelligent and valuable people is most alarming making life actually a burden instead of a pleasant existence of enjoyment and usefulness as it ought to be There is no good reason for this, if you will only throw aside prejudice and skepticism, take the advice of druggists and your friends and try one bottle of Green's August Flower Your speedy relief is certain Millions of bottles of this medicine have been given away to try its virtues with satisfactory results in every case You can buy a sample bottle for 10 cents to try Three doses will relieve the worst case Positively sold by all Druggists on the Western Continent

ENCHANTMENT

The sails we see on the ocean
Are as white as white can be
But never one in the harbor
As white as the sails at sea

And the clouds that crown the mountain
With purple and gold delight
Turn to cold gray mist and vapor
Ere ever we reach the height

Stately and fair is the vessel
That comes not near our beach
Stately and grand the mountain
Whose height we never may reach

O distance thou dear enchanter
Still hold in thy magic veil
The glory of far-off mountains
The gleam of the far-off sail

Base is the Slave that Pays

A hungry man in San Francisco his name Malone lately walked into a restaurant where he called for and devoured one dozen of oysters on the half shell one porter house steak a dish of deviled kidneys another of lake trout a roll of pickled tripe with a generous piece of mince pie Finally he called for a two-bit cigar lighted it and was walking out when the proprietor mildly asked him if he hadn't forgotten something. Turning with great wrath the banqueter delivered the following short address You are just like the rest of San Francisco which is nothing but a community of hogs It didn't seem then to occur to him that he was a distinguished and well qualified member of such a community but perhaps it did afterwards in the station house to which this man of large appetite and lean purse was forthwith conducted

The produce market exhibits no important fluctuations

Breadstuffs Imported into the United Kingdom

The imports of wheat and flour into the United Kingdom from March, 1877, to February 1878 inclusive, were as follows

Month	Qrs	Month	Qrs
March	869,813	September	1 077 334
April	1,053 106	October	1 606,939
May	1 107 886	November	1 631 096
June	1 500 325	December	1 444 779
July	1 341,852	January	1 156 960
August	1 285,644	February	1 099 070

This is 718 112 quarters less than was imported in the year 1877. The wheat imports into Great Britain during 1877 were from the following countries United States Atlantic ports, 12 487,594 cwt, from United States Pacific ports 8,871 073 cwt Russia, 10,838 000 cwt., Germany 5,435 763; British India, 6,104,440 British North America 2,912,178 France, 1,494 783 Turkey 1,253,018 The remainder was from Denmark, Sweden, Chile, Australia The flour imports for the same time were Germany, 1,239 437 cwt France, 1 990,318 cwt, United States 1 771 658 British North America 254 698 and 2,203,624 from various other countries.

Wool.

A gentleman who is perhaps better posted on the wool growing interests of Oregon than any other man in the state, writing from Salem, takes the ground that the facts do not bear out our assumption made a few days ago that the wool exports via the Columbia river would not be greater in 1878 than last year He says

There has been no unusual slaughter of sheep and the natural increase of last year will come to the shearing with even and good fleeces, the season throughout the entire Columbia river valley having been favorable in a remarkable degree both for the lives of sheep and the growth of a good staple of wool Taking the character of the season in the two localities there is reason to believe that the average of Oregon wool will be superior this season to the best of California wool. As there is a very general effort being made by growers to improve their crops of wool, both as to quality and condition of marketing they are surely entitled to all the inducements that can be offered in the way of good prices

We fully agree with our correspondent that the efforts of the wool growers of Oregon deserve the best price that can be offered, but if labor reformers, strikers, tariff tinkers and other agitators continue the policy which depresses the market for manufactured goods so that the factories must run on low priced wools or close, then we cannot see how buyers are to offer high figures. As contrasting the present with the past, we give the average price of domestic fleece wool in the United States for several years The prices from 1824 to 1861 were For fine, 58 3 cents, for medium, 42 4 cents and for coarse, 85 5 cents. Average prices for four years, 1861 to 1866—during the war—were For fine, 75 6 cents, for medium 74 cents, and for coarse 70 7 cents. Average price for eleven years, from 1866 to 1876 inclusive, were For fine, 55 cents; for medium, 58 cents, and for coarse 48 2 cents. In September, 1864, $1.15 was paid for fine and medium grades.

New York Freights and Markets.

NEW YORK, May 13.—Clipper freight market generally active, although chiefly large lots of coarse freight, except perhaps of dry goods of which there is still a good proportion going forward The ships James D Skinner and Eureka are both doing fairly, and will be loaded this week.

Freights at Philadelphia are reported as being fair and James Nesmith will probably finish all this week. The agent of the Pactolus hopes to get her off by the 16th, but it is doubtful The Santa Clara, to follow, arrived to day in ballast, to go in the berth but as the Pactolus has not yet done the Santa Clara is not likely to get away much before the 1st of July

At Boston the market is rather quiet. The Brown Bros has done fairly, but was detained a week owing to the non-arrival of freight engaged for her Her cargo includes 6 319 pieces plank, 57 cs boots 87 pkgs dry goods, 100 tons pig iron 658 cs chairs, 647 pkgs pipe 600 kegs horse shoes, 2 164 pkgs iron 2,500 kegs nails 2,500 cs petroleum, 412 coils rope 99 bbls rum 525 cases spirits turpentine 25 barrels whisky, 565 bundles steel, 140 bags sumac It is probable the ship Sachem and a new bark of 1 000 tons will follow

Markets are less active and dull Flour less active and 5@10c lower Wheat dull and weak and 1@2c lower Pork, dull and lower at $1 25@9 50 Rio coffee quiet but very firm and ¼ higher. Refined sugars are less active and steady Teas dull Petroleum dull and weaker Turpentine is in better demand at 37c. Crude sperm oil quiet and nominal manufactured reduced to $1 04.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN.

His Wonderful Success
IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL

Chronic and [illegible] Diseases,

He has astonished the People of this Coast by his skillful Operations.

HE HAS TAUGHT IN HIS public and private lectures the true principles of health and life to both male and female He has also warned them against habits that would be likely to produce disease in plain and comprehensive language But where he has found them crushed and broken down by disease mentally and physically he has restored them to health and happiness for it is well understood that without health there can be no happiness

DR. BRENAN has made a specialty in the treatment of the following diseases Catarrh Bronchitis and all diseases of the throat and chest, by an entirely new system only known to himself Diseases of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs including Spermatorrhea, Seminal Weakness or premature loss of Manhood In the treatment of these diseases he has made a world wide reputation by his astonishing success not only on this Coast but throughout the whole United States Diseases of the stomach bowels liver and kidneys as well as all diseases of the blood and skin he has become master of and never fails to give relief at once and permanently cures the case if he is applied to in time

THE DOCTOR HAS GIVEN SPECIAL LECTURES to ladies only for years and is perfectly familiar with all female complaints and understands their delicate and refined organization, as well as the proper remedies which should be used to allay their suffering and restore them to perfect health

THE DOCTOR HAS THIS ADVANTAGE over most physicians—he can tell the patients' disease the moment he comes in contact with them without any aid from the individual This accounts in part for this great professional success

All surgical operations can be performed by his skillful hand and the patient need not fear the result.

DR. BRENAN will send to those living at a distance and who can not well visit his office a list of Printed Questions and by the answers when filled out he can tell the disease as well as the proper treatment almost as well as seeing the patient personally and will forward the proper medicines or instruments, to any part of the country with full instructions and advice Each letter requiring advice or list of questions, must contain two postage stamps

Everything strictly confidential and honorable

THE DOCTOR has studied in the best Medical Schools in Europe and three years in the Jefferson Medical College at Philadelphia as more than one of the Medical men of the Medical Faculty in this State can testify

CAUTION. Persons coming to Portland requiring medical treatment of the proper kind who desire to consult with me will please beware of persons who may try to coax them away to other so called Doctors through pretended friendship for the patients Look out for them they are knaves prompted by selfish motives and what they can make Be sure and ask for DR PAUL M BRENAN the Medical Lecturer, and read his sign on his door
